

MEDIA = VIRUS

MSM wants us to like the people they think we should like. It will forward their agenda and make us even more sheepy. Let's take Bill Gates as an example. He's featured in the media very regularly. He's asked for his opinion on many topics: climate change, pandemics, viruses, vaccines and more. Who's this genius?

This is a list compiled through a "survey" of thousands of people. The result is... well... you decide...

Bill dropped a place from the world's most admired person to take second place in 2020. BTW: look at number 3: Xi Jinping. Do you know of anybody that admires this communist dictator?

You would expect that if Bill has something to say, everyone will respond with praises and compliments, right? Surely that must be true as he is so hugely admired. MSM publishes his every word since he is an "expert" on health, climate change and virology. Even on software!

Now go and find this super popular celebrity on every official social media site and places like YouTube. Look at likes and comments. Actually, Billy has disabled comments on many of his own uploads & social platforms. Too many comments were... a bit rude. The truth is: the man is actually unpopular.

Paul Allen, Microsoft co-founder:

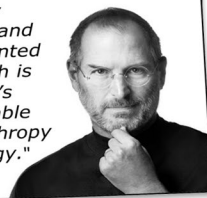

In his new book, the Microsoft co-founder writes that Gates was a brilliant but arrogant workaholic who schemed to reduce Allen's stake in the company they started together and complained that his cancer-stricken partner had become less productive.

Gates in particular has been seen before as sometimes ruthless in wielding his power. After all, there are those who charge that he acquired the basis for DOS, the source of Microsoft's first millions, unfairly, from an inventor named Gary Kildall. Harold Evans, in his book They Made America, charges that Gates essentially stole the software.

"Bill is basically unimaginative and has never invented anything, which is why I think he's more comfortable now in philanthropy than technology."

Some want to defund the police. In Florida, we're funding them & then some by providing all of our heroes $1,000 bonuses. This represents more than 174,000 first responders across the state!

COVID UPDATE

Coronavirus: WHO estimates 10% of global population infected with COVID-19

Roughly one in 10 people across the globe may have already been infected with the novel coronavirus. The estimate from the World Health Organization comes as it predicts that "a difficult period" lies ahead.

Let's use this WHO statement:

Almost a third of recent Covid deaths in England and Wales not caused by virus

Increasing numbers of people whose underlying cause of death is not coronavirus are still being included in official figures

Nearly one third of recently registered Covid deaths in England and Wales are people who died primarily from other causes, the latest figures show.

Weekly death data from the Office for National Statistics (ONS) shows that, for nearly 33 per cent of people included in the overall coronavirus death figures, Covid was not an underlying cause of death but was merely mentioned on the death certificate.

World population: 8 Billion. 10%= 800 million infected. Covid deaths: 3.4 million (deaths WITH and not DUE TO Covid). Fatality rate = 0,425%. Recovery rate = 99,575%. People that were never infected: 7200 million or 90% of the world's population.
