

MEDIA = VIRUS

Can we still trust MSM to report the truth? Can we take their facts and advice seriously? These are three questions that M=V has an answer for: no, you can't. Could we have trusted them before this Covid pandemic arrived? No, you couldn't. Although millions have died with this new SARS virus, virtually no country has increased their ICU capacity. You'd think that this would have been a top priority. Governments had 19 months to act. MSM, however, seemingly has accepted government's reasons and as a result, nobody questions it. Instead, a blunt instrument was chosen: Lockdowns. Let's view some reports made by various media. The examples shown below are either outright fake, or their underlying message is.

BBC Producer Says Syria Douma Chemical Attack Footage "Was Staged"

Well known BBC Syria producer Riam Dalati checked his nearly 20,000 twitter followers by stating that after a "six month investigation" he has concluded, "I can prove without a doubt that the Douma Hospital scene was staged."

A BBC producer has dropped a bombshell by asserting that video footage of last year's chemical weapons attack in the Syrian city of Douma was staged.

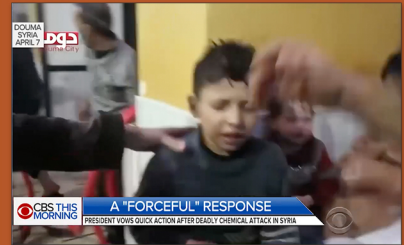

The claims have sparked serious questions over whether the British broadcaster colluded in spreading a "manufactured" narrative against the Syrian government as part of what critics allege was a deliberate Western mainstream media campaign to trigger and justify the subsequent U.S.-led military action against Syria.

BBC Syria producer Riam Dalati on Wednesday claimed in a series of Twitter posts that the video footage, aired by BBC, showing people being treated after the alleged April 7, 2018, chemical weapons attack in Douma was staged. He arrived at the conclusion after six months of investigations. The BBC later said that the journalist "was expressing his own opinion."

Would MSM deliberately mislead?
An all-out war could have erupted over this.
It seems either activists, anarchists,
or some government wanted this to happen.
MSM is bad, but they're not terrorists.
